

Assistance for Students at Washington University: Selected Resources

For additional resources or to report a concern, please see washucares.wustl.edu/.

Center for Diversity and Inclusion diversity.wustl.edu/center-diversity-inclusion

The Center for Diversity and Inclusion enhances and strengthens Washington University in St. Louis' commitment to fostering a diverse and inclusive community. The center's staff supports and advocates for students from traditionally underrepresented or marginalized populations and creates collaborative partnerships with campus and community members to promote dialogue and social change.

Cornerstone: The Center for Advanced Learning cornerstone.wustl.edu/

Cornerstone provides academic-mentoring programs for students, as well as services for students with disabilities. Students with disabilities may approach you to request accommodations (such as additional time on exams or note-taking services). Please note that in this case students must contact Cornerstone's Disabilities Resources office (<http://cornerstone.wustl.edu/Disability-Resources/>). The staff at the Disabilities Resources Office will communicate with the course instructor or course master regarding any required accommodations. Cornerstone is located on the first floor of the Gregg Residence Hall on the South 40.

Dean's Offices

If a student is not coming to class or is otherwise having difficulty completing course requirements, contact the dean's office in the appropriate school: The College of Arts and Sciences (935-6800); Olin School of Business, Undergraduate Student Services (935-6315); Sam Fox School of Design & Visual Arts, Associate Dean's office (935-6532); School of Engineering, Engineering Student Services (935-6100). If the student is in a graduate or professional school, faculty may contact the director of graduate studies in the appropriate department, division, or school.

Engineering Communication Center engineering.wustl.edu/current-students/student-services/ecc/Pages/default.aspx

The Engineering Communication Center (in Urbauer Hall, Room 104) offers students in the School of Engineering and Applied Sciences help with oral presentations, writing assignments, and other communications projects, as well as job-search documents such as resumes and cover letters. Their focus is on scientific and technical writing.

English Language Programs (ELP) oiss.wustl.edu/english-language-programs/

The mission of the ELP is to increase the English proficiency of students who are non-native English speakers, thus facilitating their success at the University and beyond. ELP is in the Stix International House on Forsyth Blvd.

Residential Life reslife.wustl.edu/

The Residential Life office, on the ground floor of the South-40 House, maintains close contact with students through its Resident Advisors (RAs) and Residential College Directors (RCDs).

Student Health Services shs.wustl.edu/

Student Health Services provide various programs and services that can help students stay healthy, from medical care to stress-prevention and nutrition programs. The Habib Health and Wellness Center is located on the South-40 in the Nathan Dardick House, a location that is especially convenient for undergraduate students living on campus.

The Writing Center writingcenter.wustl.edu/

The Writing Center offers free workshops and consulting services designed to help writers strengthen their writing and presentation skills. Students can meet with Writing Center tutors at any stage of the writing process. In addition, they can practice oral presentations in the Writing Center's Speaking Studio. The Writing Center is in the northwest corner of the First Level of Olin Library, on the Danforth Campus.

Note: Resources related to sexual assault and violence will be provided on a separate handout.
